

Formatting the list of references

List of references starts on a separate page.

Title is References and is centered on the page.

References

List is alphabetized based on the first letter of each entry, ignoring a, and, and the.

Andrews, J. (2016). Cowboys, cactus, and craziness. San Francisco, CA: West Bay Press.

Bailey, P. (2013). History of the Pony Express. US News, 11(1), 1-5. Retrieved from <http://www.usnews.com/opinion/articles/2013/11/04/history-of-pony-express>.

List is double spaced, with no additional space between entries.

Gorski, T. (2016). Lake Stone picnic area [Photograph]. Retrieved from <https://www.gorskiblogspot.com>

Entries are formatted with a hanging indent.

Jones, D. (2012). A history of the Pony Express. Boston, MA: Boston Books.

Kuchar, M. (2000). Kuchars, kitchens, and kuchen. New York, NY: Skyscraper Publishing.

Pony Express basic facts. (2016). Retrieved from <http://www.ponyexpressproject.org/learn-more/>

URLs are kept on one line if possible.

The recipe that changed the world. (2004). American Journal of Cooking, 13(1). Retrieved from <http://www.americanjournalofcooking.com>

The is ignored when alphabetizing, so The recipe comes before Ricci.

Ricci, S. (2014). The migration of plants (pp. 43-46). Retrieved from <http://www.plantsfacts.com>

Hyperlinks are removed from the URLs.

West, K. (2011). Unsung heroes. Journal of Firefighting, 12(1), 130-142. doi:10.1234/5678-9123.4.5.6

Each source included in your in-text citations has an entry, except for personal communications.
